As far as he is concerned, the impossible just takes a little longer. In his book of memories, Contino tells how to get the job done, no matter what the job might entail. From his early days growing up on the streets of Chicago in an Italian neighborhood, Sam Contino has always been an outside-the-box thinker. His beloved brother Raymond—who died during a training exercise prior to entering the war—has been a lifelong inspiration. Perseverance and hard work served Contino well through a stint in the Coast Guard and then in the Navy, where he worked in the motor pool. A creative and skilled mechanic, he taught specialized auto classes to the employees of General Motors, The U.S. Marine Corps, and Sun Electric. He also owned and operated his own auto shops in Chicago, and Las Cruces, New Mexico. Eventually, he settled his wife, Ida, in the Ontario area of southern California where he opened another auto shop and his family expanded to include six children. When Chaffey College hired him in 1966, Contino transformed their Automotive Technology Department into one of the finest and best known in the country. Students from all sections of the United States, Canada, Mexico, and Great Britain enrolled over the twenty years he taught at Chaffey. Contino gained national recognition for the college when the Auto Tech department conducted a 100,000-mile road test on a Pinto for Ford Motor Company and ran a set of steel-belted radials around the United States for Sears. Both these road tests garnered media attention and prestige for Chaffey College. Contino pioneered the only for-credit racecar technology program...
